

PRESENTATIONS AT SICB (January 2008)

- Logan, M., M. W. Sears, and M. J. Angilletta. 2008. Being a mom isn't always so hot: the effects of reproductive status on thermoregulatory behavior in squamate reptiles
- Wilson, R. S., C. Bywater, M. J. Angilletta, R. S. James, C. A. Navas, and F. Seebacher. 2008. Honest and dishonest signals of strength in Australian slender crayfish (Cherax dispar): are males liars and cheaters?
- Angilletta, M. J. and R. S. Wilson. 2008. Clawing your way to the top: variation, repeatability and social benefits of chela strength in slender crayfish.
- Sears, M. W. and M. J. Angilletta. 2008. Evaluating the costs of thermoregulation: simulating animal movements through spatially-structured environments define cost curves for small lizards.
- Niehaus, A. C., M. J. Angilletta, C. E. Franklin, and R. S. Wilson. 2008. Growing up in an unstable environment: Consequences of diel thermal variation to developing anurans.
- Cooper, B. S., B. H. Williams, and M. J. Angilletta. 2008. Life in the big city: thermal tolerances of isopods in an urban heat island.
- Cooper, B. S., B. H. Williams, and M. J. Angilletta. 2008. Unifying indices of heat tolerance in ectotherms.
- Ehrenberger, J. C., L. B. Buckley, and M. J. Angilletta. 2008. How does knowledge of intraspecific variation improve our ability to predict geographic distributions? A case study of the eastern fence lizard, Sceloporus undulatus.
- Schuler, M. S. and R. P. Thiel. 2008. Annual vs. multiple year home range sizes of individual Blanding's turtles, Emydoidea blandingii, in central Wisconsin.